Is this advertisement is effective?

- Effectively utilizes emotional branding to provide a sentimental setting (Father + Daughter relationship) in order to provide context and intrigue for the story.
- Relatable by utilizing characters of all demographics (varying age, gender, language, etc.)
- Presents a serious topic through humor, allowing the audience to digest the core message while also allowing the advertisement to promote it's product
- It appeals to the cultural sensibilities of the target audience.

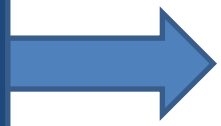

Questions? Criticisms?

- Do companies play on the emotional aspect of their advertisements to persuade the target audience to buy their products?
